Dear Jimmy and Jessica,

I want to thank the two of you for going through all of this with me. There were lots of evenings I spent studying, instead of spending time with you. There were many days I was not the easiest person to get along with. There were times I thought I took on more than I could handle. Through all of this, the two of you gave me the strength to go on. My classmates asked how I could manage with two children. My reply, "How could I have done this without them?" Now, we can settle down into a normal family life. School is behind us, guys. Your mom is back.

Since 1947

Every pair of eyes is unique, too.

Fingerprints aren't the only human mark of distinction. Each pair of eyeprints is also biologically different from another. As we continue to develop advanced rigid gas permeable contact lens materials, we never lose sight of this fact.
